

PETER RABBIT

Words and music by Linda Arnold

Peter Rabbit hopping on his way
To the garden on a sunny day
Wearing a new blue jacket, so carefree
Hopping happily

When he came to the garden gate
To eat some lettuce, he couldn't wait
So he looked around and quickly slipped inside
And then forgot to hide

Look out little Peter, that farmer is cunning
I think he sees you. You better start running
Jump into that water can, that's what you could do
Now be very quiet, so he doesn't find you

Peter managed to get away
But, lost his shoes and his coat that day
When he finally got home Mrs. Rabbit said
"Peter, go straight to bed."
His mother had warned him
"To McGregor's, don't go!"
Now his shoes and his little blue coat
Are the farmer's new scarecrow

Peter Rabbit hopping on his way
To a new adventure today
Maybe a little wiser, but still carefree
Hopping happily, hopping happily!
